'Choir Convo Today 'Sketches' Christmas

The annual Christmas convocation, "Christmas Sketches," will be presented by the University choir at 10 a. m. this morning in the Auditorium. Ten o'clock classes will be dismissed.

It will be the first appearance before the student and faculty for Choir Director John D. Miller. Miller replaced Richard H. Brewer who is teaching and studying at UCLA.

Using song, setting, and the spoken word, the chorus and narrator Don McKeen will tell the Christmas story. The program is in three scenes in the 1900's.

In the first scene choir members and the Madrigal singers will tell of "The Gift of Christmas."

"The Shepherds Had an Angel" will highlight the second scene with the choir sitting in church pews. Stained glass windows, designed by art student Pat Ryan, will background the section.

Choir members will form a human Christmas in the last scene as they sing the "Wonders of Winter."

Soloist for the program are

Soloists for the program are Mary Linn Johnson and William Jurgens. Pianists are Miss Johnson, James Felton and Richard Herre. Nancy Yates will play a cello accompaniment.

Two Memorial Funds Organized for Nevins

Two memorial funds in honor of Carolyn Nevins have been established at the University. The Faculty Women's Club, in lieu of bringing food to the annual Christmas party, presented $26 toward a gift in her name for the new Library. Persons interested in contributing to the fund may notify the Dean of Students Office.

The Senior Class will meet shortly after Christmas vacation to vote upon a memorial fund or gift to represent the student body.

Tomahawk Plans Picture Schedule

Senior pictures will be taken throughout Christmas vacation at Rolland Studio.

Seniors who want to have their picture taken during vacation must see Bob Wolfe in the Student Publications office by Dec. 21 to verify their senior standing. They will be given a voucher to present to the University cashier when the fee is paid.

A payment receipt must be presented at Rolland Studio before the pictures are taken. Proofs will be sent from the studio directly to the students home, and must be returned to the studio.

Organizations that wish to be pictured in the Tomahawk must pay their fees immediately. Over 40 organizations filed applications for picture space, but only 20 have paid.

Three Presented Language Awards

Three students who have distinguished themselves in French language and literature were given awards Dec. 7.

Camille Wells, third-year student, received a bronze medal of Victor Hugo. Betty Kudym and Patrick Ryan, second- and first-year students respectively, each received a French classical book. The award winners have studied the language and culture of France under the supervision of Dr. Oscar Budel.

The awards were presented by consular agent of France in Omaha Robert C. Frazer. Mr. Frazer is an Omaha attorney.

Police Search Continues For Carolyn Nevins' Slayer

Nevins Held High Record

Carolyn Nevins rated superior aptitude scores in every field tested in her entrance examinations. She was encouraged by each professor under whom she studied to major in that field.

Although Carolyn planned to study law, her "real interest in all she did," noted by each of her professors, provided the background for her varied extracurricular activities. She planned to complete her college course in three years and graduate in June.

She was student Library assistant and a tutor for Dr. T. N. Bonner, associate history professor.

Membership in honorary campus organizations included Alpha Kappa Delta, sociology, Pi Kappa Delta, debate and Pi Gamma Mu, social science. Just last week Carolyn had been accepted as a member of Corinthians, by being on the Deans Honor Roll for four semesters. She was a member of Independents, University Players, Pre-Law Club, Westminster Fellowship, the Panel of Americans and was active in backstage dramatic productions.

Dr. George Wilber, assistant sociology professor, had recommended Carolyn for the Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowship, a general social science award given to only 150 students throughout the nation.

She held several citations and excellent and superior ratings in debate, extemporaneous speaking and discussion.

Friends Pay Tribute: Praise High Qualities

The words of Carolyn Nevins' speech teacher and debate coach typify the feeling of all persons with whom she had contact.

"Once in a great while humanity is blessed with a spirit that comprehends and reflects the great values which move man forward in his struggle and stay upon the earth. Such a spirit was Carolyn. Her selflessness, her eagerness to learn, her desire to help and to build are symbols of man's highest qualities," said Alfred Sugarman.

Dean of Women Mrs. Mary Padou Young attributed Carolyn as "... a very distinctive personality one will always remember. She was an individualist with strong ideas so unusual for one of her age."

Dean of Students Jay B. MacGregor praised her as "... one of the nicest girls I've ever known ... alert, wide sympathies and unusually well motivated."

Ariyss Welch, locker mate and former debate partner: "Carolyn was a wonderful person in every way. She always was so happy, and she made others feel the same way."

Head Librarian Miss Ellen Lord: "Carolyn was one of the finest student assistants in the Library. To her this was more than a job; she had a real interest in books and services of the Library."

Jeanne Lucht, student Library assistant: "She lived as a Christian in all she did. There are hardly adequate words to praise her."

Rebecca Chartier, close friend and student Library assistant: "I can only express the memories of her ready smile and stimulating conversation. She has my respect and deep affection as being one of the most accomplished women I have known."

Harper To Attend Meet

An Omaha University professor of English will travel to Chicago Dec. 27-29 to attend the Modern Language Association of America meeting.

Dr. Robert Harper will represent the university English department at the association meeting.

Police are continuing the search for the slayer of 20-year-old Carolyn Nevins. The body of the senior sociology and speech major was found about 200 yards from the faculty parking lot on the main drive at 4:10 a. m. last Saturday. She had been shot four times.

Police have checked several reports of seeing Miss Nevins waiting on campus for her father. She was killed sometime after she had left the University Library where she worked until 10 p. m.

Wednesday afternoon a squad of detectives made an inch-by-inch search of the area where Miss Nevins was found. No new clues were reported.

Police are continuing interrogation of students, friends, faculty and University employees in the hope of discovering significant information.

University faculty members have willingly consented to take a lie detector test if necessary. No member of the faculty or student body has been booked. As of Thursday, no charges had been filed against any person questioned.

President Milo Bail requested that persons having information regarding any phase of the crime

Attention!

If it is necessary to remain at the University after the 10 p. m. closing hour, students are reminded that the southwest wing of the building near the ROTC offices remains accessible to them.

Until 10:30 p. m., students may leave the building by the southwest door, directly opposite the GATEWAY entrance. After this time they may leave by the Building and Grounds Department shop door.

If, however, a student is out of the building after 10:30 and must re-enter, he may ring the bell on the southwest door and be admitted by the custodian. A phone is available in Superintendent Alden Aust's office.

should contact police or University authorities.

The OU Board of Regents, and the World-Herald and radio station KOWH have each posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to capture of the criminal.

Samardick and Company, private investigators, has been hired by the University to help the investigation. Samardick officials said if one of their men solves the crime, he will not be eligible for the reward.

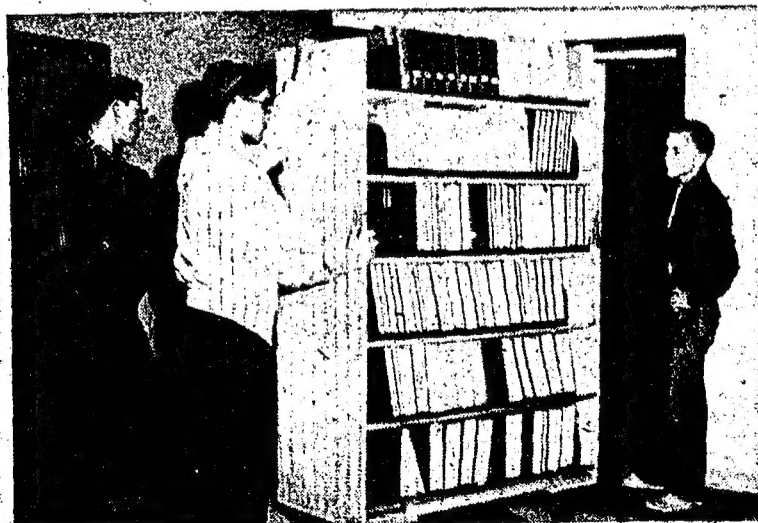

Miss Nevins' funeral Monday at Countryside Community Church was attended by more than 300 persons. Interment was at Hillcrest Memorial Park.

We Apologize

You've heard of "match-making," but last week the GATEWAY went one step further and accidentally played "stork" to Vice-President Hoff's unmarried daughter, Jane of Lincoln!

Actually, the child was quite legitimate. It was his other daughter, Mrs. Glenn (Joan) Carter of Columbus, who gave birth to a baby girl.

Booklift Trucks Start Rolling; Daily Turnover: 16,000 Books

Fred Geihls, Jim Nemer and Darry Lundgren consider "low bridge" in "Operation Booklift."

"Operation Booklift," involving the mass movement of volumes from the present Library to the new building, has already begun, Miss Ellen Lord, University Librarian has announced.

The specially constructed trucks capable of moving 300 volumes per trip, are already rolling. At present, the basement shelves have been emptied, and their contents are in place in the new building. At the climax of the movement, an expected 1,800 volumes will be moved per hour, with a total of around 16,000 volumes being moved daily.

The University Library has approximately 104,000 books, and is currently adding to that number at the rate of 75 weekly. The "rental collection," which enables students to have at their disposal many new and best-selling materials, numbered about 65 books at the opening of the autumn semester. Now it numbers better than 100 volumes.

"Operation Booklift" is expected to be complete by Dec. 23. Thirty-six students, (28 men and 8 women) are participating in the movement. According to Miss Lord, "They are doing an excellent job."

University Employees Vote To Accept Social Security

Everyone who works at Omaha University for pay is now under Social Security as of September 1, 1955.

This was the date when OU officially entered the ranks of Social Security and became eligible for its retirement benefits.

A referendum held July 14, 1955, showed 83 per cent of the University voters in favor of the adoption of the security plan. Voters were OU people who were under the university retirement plan at the time.

Each Pays Two Per Cent

Each individual under the program pays two per cent of his salary up to his first $4,200. Thus a person receiving $500 a month would pay $10 a month. A person must have been paying Social Security for 10 years to be eligible for the benefits.

OU's adoption of Social Security was made possible when Congress in 1954 passed a revision to the Social Security Act enabling more people to come under it. This revision gave the states the authority to grant security if a referendum showed a majority in favor of it.

Congress Changes Plan

Previously, in 1951, Congress had passed amendments denying states and government subdivisions to give Social Security to anyone if they had a retirement plan. This law left OU out since the University has had a retirement plan since 1943.

Richard C. Debus, director of auxiliary enterprises, said that, "There is no question that Social Security is good insurance, especially for young people." However, it is actually a big benefit to everyone because if a person were to buy life insurance with such high retirement benefits as Social Security offers, he would have to pay a much higher premium," he added.

Student Promotes Interest in Hockey

Dear Editor:

We would appreciate it very much if the student body would support our hockey games at Ak-Sar-Ben. If enough students would express their interest in hockey, the school might set it up as an intramural sport.

A petition with over 100 names has been given to Ernie Gorr, director of intramurals, and they are now considering making it an intramural sport.

Games are being played at 10 p. m. every Monday. Fraternities have showed their interest by playing games every week this past month.

Students who have come to these games say that they enjoy them very much. There is always excitement.

Cottons Cagers Whip SDU; Lose Against Peru, Doane

From the Sports Desk

Another big basketball center was frustrated by Omaha University's tiger defense Monday night at the OU Fieldhouse.

The result was the Indians' first home win, a 62-53 comeback triumph over South Dakota U. Jack Cotton's charges trailed 30-22 at halftime.

Six-foot-seven-inch Don Jongewaarde, the touted Coyote ace, made his shots look easy, but they wouldn't go in. Indian Don Meade was the master on both offense and defense.

SDU substituted often in an attempt to keep Meade away from the basket. Meade stuffed in 22 points, while drawing one foul.

Coach Cotton's usual roaring, towel-waving brand of basketball psychology was supplemented by a half-time plan to remove OU's eight-point deficit.

He instructed the Indian cagers to practice free throws while the Dakotans lolled on locker room benches.

With Meade, Johnny Morse, Dean Thompson, and Bob Sklenar doing the heavy gunning, the scoreboard read OU 41, SDU 40 with 9:52 left in the contest. Thompson and Sklenar faked Coyote protectors away from the hoop for important drive-in goals.

Mural Results

Intramural chief Ernie Gorr said table tennis competition is finally underway.

Last week Frank Berg defeated Howard Larimore, 21-15 and 21-1; Michael Leskys downed John Botthell, 21-15 and 21-18; Richard Eckstrom bested Jim Graddy by 21-16 and 21-15; while James Zulfert nipped Buzz Townsend, 21-19 and 21-14, after losing the first game by a 23-21 overtime count.

Leadership changed hands in the men's intramural bowling league as ISA pocketed a pair of wins while Pawnees swept three straight in last Thursday's action at the West Lanes Bowlatorium.

Nine intramural basketball teams were placed for competition when tip-off play began this week. They are Lambda Chi Alpha, Newman Club, Phi Beta Chi, Pawnees, ISA, P. E. Majors, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pi Kappa Alpha and Theta Chi.

All teams will play each other once on a round-robin schedule. The varsity court is being used as contests are held at 1 and 2 p. m. each Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. This does not conflict with either Indian or Papoose practice sessions.

Murmurs, chest pains and palpitations are not necessarily signs of heart trouble. Only your doctor can tell, says Nebraska Heart Association.

Big Game Tonight Versus Wesleyan

Omaha University cagers take a 2-4 won-lost record to Lincoln tonight where they meet Nebraska Wesleyan. The Wesleyan Plainsmen have also lost more than their share.

Both teams have suffered from a height disadvantage in most of their early season starts. The Indians will probably field the taller starting lineup, with Don Meade the longest man on either initial five.

Wesleyan's home court advantage may be abetted by a wide margin of experience over the OU squad.

The Plainsmen feature Foster McGuire and Jack Wood. The pair have five years of varsity savvy between them. Wood has been named to the All-Nebraska College Conference team for three straight seasons.

Defending champs in the conference, Wesleyan lost their first league start to Doane Tuesday night.

This week we must look elsewhere for humor and the Creighton Pre-Legal Club Newsletter offers interesting comments on an Old English Statute.

In days of old, MEN were supposedly bold, but after perusal of this statute, you may draw a different conclusion:

"All women of whatever age, rank, profession, or degree, who shall impose upon, seduce, and BETRAY INTO MATRIMONY, any of His Majesty's male subjects, by virtue of scents, paints, cosmetics and washes, artificial teeth, false hair, iron stays bolstered hips, or high heeled shoes, SHALL INCUR THE PENALTY OF THE LAW now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors, and marriage under such circumstances shall be null and void!"

Would a return to the laws of 1770 be beneficial? Woe unto women if so!

The Brander's Junior Colony and its College Board representative would like to wish everyone a joyous and holy Christmas and the happiest of new years!
